Hello everyone,

My name is Pierre and I'm 15. I think English is an important language so I want to improve my skills. That's why I want to find a pen-friend which is interested in learning French so we can exchange in both languages and eventually meet.

I am very sporty, I love fencing and playing basketball with my friends. I also love reading books and watching Netflix on my couch! Moreover, I would love to travel, I am fond of cities English. Actually, my sister live in London so I know the city very well, she work as a French assistant in a school and she love it! Last year, I also go to Ireland for a week for travel all around the country. It was a great experience.

I talk a lot but I am also a bit shy, especially in English because I am scared of make mistakes but I really want to improve!

Don't hesitate to contact me if you are interested in an exchange. You can write to me in French and I'll try to answer in English in return.

Bye for now, Pierre.
